

Do your students have questions for the people who illustrate children's books?

We're creating an exhibit that will open at the Alaska State Museum and travel around the state. This is an exhibit for young people, and we want to answer questions that kids have. We will be exploring the process behind bookmaking. The illustrators are Evon Zerbetz [woodblock prints], Michaela Goade [watercolor and digital], Mitchell Watley [drawing and digital] and Jim Fowler [painting].

In the exhibit, we will have videos of the artists answering questions about themselves and their work. If your kids have questions, please shoot a quick video of them on a plain background and email it our way (a phone video will work!). We will then film the artists answering their questions.

If video is not a possibility, send questions in writing. If we feature a video of one of your students asking a question in the exhibit, we'll need a release form signed by parents. Please contact us with any questions. The exhibit will open in February of 2021. Videos are needed by September of 2020.
